Design is precision in disguise.

I'm a graphic designer specialised in editorial design, with experience in packaging, layout, motion graphics, social media, and UI/UX and web design. I've worked across agency, nonprofit and cultural institutions — with organisations like Harris Theater, SAIC, Esri and Reingold — bringing visual clarity to complex communication challenges.

NBA Mind Health

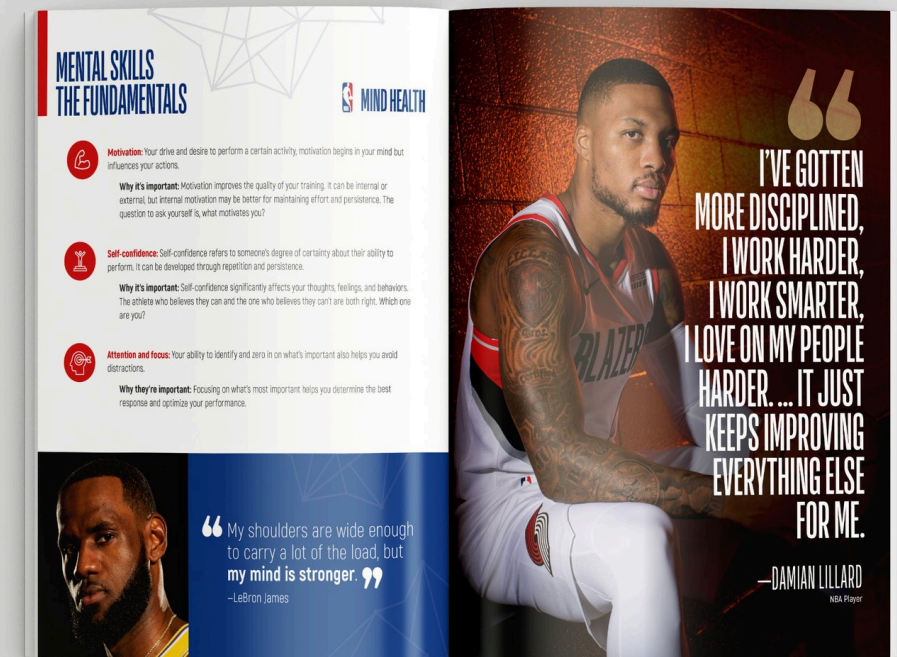

A brochure on the mental-skills fundamentals, built around player voices.

Big quotes, clear steps — mental health in the players’ own words.

An editorial brochure for the NBA Mind Health programme. Each spread pairs a player portrait and pull quote with a short, numbered set of practical skills.

Condensed display type carries the energy of the court; a calm, structured text column keeps the guidance easy to follow.

DC Health fact sheets

A COVID-19 mask guidance series for DC Health — icons and plain-language do's and don'ts that read at a glance.

When to wear a mask

COVID-19: MASKS DRAFT

Wearing a mask is important to prevent the spread of COVID-19. Mask wearing is especially important for people who are not fully vaccinated or immunocompromised.

OPTIONS TO IMPROVE FIT AND MASK LAYERS

GOOD FIT

Snug around nose and chin with no gaps around the sides of face

IMPROVE FIT

The knot and tuck method reduces gaps around the face

A nose wire that bends tight around your nose

A mask fitter or brace over a mask helps with breathability and gaps around sides of face

Face coverings or masks should be made of 2-3 layers of tightly woven fabric or have a pocket for a filter; thinner fabric coverings can be worn with disposable masks (i.e. double-masking) to achieve recommended protection.

Improve fit & layers

DO NOT:

Combine two disposable masks

Combine a KN95 with any other mask

Wear a mask with valves or vents

Wear a mask made of leather, mesh, or other loosely woven knit fabric.

Wear a face shield without a mask

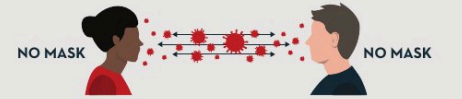

Wear a medical-grade disposable face mask (for example medical, surgical, or procedure masks)

MASKS PROTECT THE WEARER AND OTHER PEOPLE

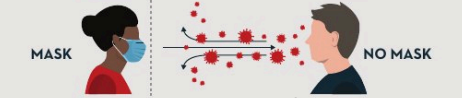

Choosing not to wear a mask puts your own health as well as the health of others at risk (such as people who are immunocompromised and may not be fully protected from the vaccine, and people who are not yet eligible to get the vaccine).

WHEN SHOULD I WEAR A MASK

Everyone (including fully vaccinated people) must wear masks in indoor public settings including but not limited to grocery stores, office buildings, gyms, apartment common areas, schools, public transportation, and other establishments.

Unvaccinated people can participate in the following activities without face masks at low risk to themselves:

- casual outdoor activities with members of their household (e.g., biking, running, walking)
- attending a small outdoor gathering with friends and/or family who are fully vaccinated
- visiting indoors with fully vaccinated people from one household
- People who are not fully vaccinated and immunocompromised people should continue to follow everyday prevention measures like social distancing, avoiding crowds, and avoiding poorly ventilated indoor spaces.

Fully vaccinated people can participate in outdoor activities safely without masks or social distancing, but may choose to wear a mask in crowded outdoor settings

- if they or someone in their household is immunocompromised or unvaccinated.
- if they are in an area with low vaccination rates and substantial to high COVID-19 rates.

Fully vaccinated people who are immunocompromised (e.g., on chemotherapy, on dialysis, have blood cancers like leukemia, have had an organ transplant or stem cell transplant) may not be fully protected and should follow the same masking rules as for unvaccinated people.

Partially vaccinated people and anyone else who does not meet the definition of "fully vaccinated" should follow the same masking rules as for unvaccinated people.

Take your shot!
Find out more about the COVID-19 vaccine at coronavirus.dc.gov/vaccine

In settings where fully vaccinated and unvaccinated people are present, if everyone wears mask, it reduced the risk to those who are not fully vaccinated.

For more information, See Mask Guidance for the General Public at coronavirus.dc.gov/healthguidance.

EXAMPLES OF FACE COVERINGS

Cloth Face Coverings: (such as homemade cloth masks, store-bought fabric masks, etc.) These can generally be washed and reused.

Clear Masks: (or cloth masks with a clear plastic panel) An alternative mask for people who interact with people who are deaf, students learning to read, students learning a new language, or people with disabilities.

Non-Medical Disposable Masks: These masks look similar to medical grade masks but are not intended for medical use.
